DENVER, Colo., July 30. (Pittsburgh Courier)—The 20th reunion of the Boy Scouts and Five Year Old Scouts culminated today in the annual parade, which was the third largest Denver has ever witnessed. The weather was perfect.

There were in line nearly 15,000 Scouts, representing about 100 packs. Many of the packs were directed by the Scout club boys' president, and were also in the parade. Interposed in the procession were 23 bands. The first division consisted of a police

Denver lodge, decorated carriages and the Denver lodge riding at crest of honor. Following this division, New York lodge No. 1, the parent organization of the order, held the place of honor with other states' lodges follow-

KICK IN CHEST

CAUSED THE DEATH OF PATRICK
ST. JOHN.

BOSTON, July 20.—Patrick St. John, aged 44, living at 1217 Washington street, was kicked in the chest by a horse at the Arcade stables, where he was employed, about 7 o'clock last evening, and received injuries that caused his death about an hour later at the City hospital. Although there was scarcely a mark visible on his chest to show where the hoof of the horse had struck him, the blow caused internal injuries, and doubtless had a severe effect upon his heart.

St. John was heading down some of the horses when he met his death. The animal that kicked him had never shown fractious tendencies before and so the stableman was not on his guard against any show of temper from that particular horse. The other men were at work in other parts of the stable and no one saw the accident, but one of them heard St. John fall and heard his groans and ran to help him.

The men about the stable say that St. John was a good-natured fellow and a hard worker. He had been employed there for about five years. He lived over the stable, was unmarried, and nothing is known of his relatives. He came from Halifax.

We are noted for our stylish line of Neckties. At this mark-down period of the year we have put a price on the lots we want you to wear. Think of buying regular 25c washable ties just when you most need them at the clearance sale

THE LOWELL SUN

SUN BUILDING, MERRIMACK SQUARE, LOWELL, MASS.

JOHN H. HARRINGTON, PROPRIETOR.

Member of the Associated Press.

Three Dollars per Year. Twenty-five Cents per Month

The Sun receives the full day service of THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, the greatest news-gathering organization in the world. The entire service received over a leased wire, by our own operator, in our own office in The Sun building.

SWORN CIRCULATION OF THE SUN

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1905 was

14,829

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1906.

JOHN J. HOGAN, Notary Public.

This is a larger circulation than the combined circulation of all the other daily papers in Lowell.

An advertisement placed in The Sun is of more value to the advertiser than if it were inserted in all the other newspapers in Lowell, and the cost of inserting it in The Sun is about ONE-THIRD the price charged by the other papers.

Like most other Republican leaders, Senator Lodge thinks the question of campaign contributions "quite unimportant." But with his secretary in jail for the bribery of $25 and the promise of a consulship still undecided, the people of Massachusetts may deem it of enough importance to ask Lodge some troublesome questions.

It is but small consolation to most of us that Senator Beveridge has the pen with which the meat bill was signed as we not only have to pay the cost of inspection, but the high price for meat that the beef trust will charge us to make up the expense of cleaning up their establishments. These republican laws always have a sting to them that helps the trust.

Why did the republicans of the house of representatives refuse to pass the Tillman bill which the democrats forced through the senate, forbidding corporation contributions to national campaign funds and why did President Roosevelt not insist on the bill's passing? The only answer that the republican leaders can make, is they expect to effect another add on the corporations to supply the campaign funds necessary to keep them in power and therefore did not want that democratic proposition to cut off the supply.

SPECIAL PRIVILEGE THE MAIN EVIL.

Privilege is so strongly entrenched in our government, that it can never be expelled until it is destroyed. Every compromise strengthens it. Hence the evil that lurks in the rate bill, the meat bill, and the pure food bill. They are merely a step in the right direction, but do not strike at the root of the evils.

A STARTLING SUBTERFUGE

We are told that the administration does not propose to be hampered in its Dominican policy by the failure of the senate to ratify its unconstitutional compact with Santo Domingo, which was rejected because it was not a treaty but a subterfuge for collecting money to be deposited in New York banks without authority of law. That money doesn't belong to the United States. It is not public money. And it might be made available as a campaign fund in case all other sources fail. That is the milk in the administration's Dominican coconut.

FAVORING THE BANKS.

Why does the administration issue $50,000,000 of Panama Canal bonds, when there is, according to the official statement, $150,000,000 of available cash in the treasury, of which over $50,000,000 is in the favored banks and not drawing interest? Is the reason for the issue of bonds because the banks require them to put up as security for more money? The fact that the taxpayers of the United States will have to pay interest on this new issue after July 20th, does not hinder a republican administration from saddling the load on the people while the banks go free. The game of finance as played by the republicans is all one-sided and the banks always get the best of it.

THAT POSTAL CARD POLL.

We hope that this poll of the telephone subscribers called for by Mayor Casey will be carried out with the strictest fairness. It is up to his Honor to see that this be done without fail. The result will represent not public sentiment, but the sentiment of the telephone subscribers alone.

Nothing is more natural than that there will be some dissatisfaction with every kind of public service. There is dissatisfaction in some quarters against the Boston and Northern railway, and against the Boston and Maine railway against the post office, the telegraphic service for Lowell and in fact every other kind of public service. It never has otherwise and never will be. It is impossible to please everybody, but the public service company that has so few complaints as are being registered against the New England Telephone company in the poll called for by Mayor Casey, must be giving a highly efficient service.

If there was any public demand for a second telephone service, it is the present telephone users who would know about it, and they would vote that demand in their replies. But they are overwhelmingly opposed to a second company which is conclusive proof that the public does not want this second proposition; for if the people who are supposed to have a grievance against the established company vote about 50 per cent. against the second telephone franchise, it is reasonable to suppose that a poll of the non-users of telephones would be practically unanimous against the franchise. Hence there is no demand anywhere for this second telephone scheme except from certain aldermen and a few franchise speculators without capital who are evidently intent on turning the franchise into money and dividing up.

THE WAGE QUESTION.

The Textile council replying to the letter of the mill agents promising an indefinite increase is commendably moderate. The members of the council are of course justified in the claim that the agents' letter is vague as to the amount to be granted in every case and as to the time at which this increase shall take effect.

In referring to this subject yesterday before the reply of the Textile council appeared, we said:

"Of course if the agents can give a higher percentage of increase than that mentioned in their reply so much the better; but one thing which the operatives will insist on is that the increase shall come in a tangible form and not be dependent upon chance or upon conditions over which they have no control. Neither would it be considered an acceptable proposition to grant an increase that could be attained only by doing more or harder work. No such increase will satisfy the operatives."

That statement we can repeat with emphasis today, particularly in its reference to the demands of the operatives.

The negotiations have gone far enough, we believe, in letter writing, which is always dangerously formal. It is plain that a thorough understanding cannot be reached in this manner. The best thing that can be done now is to hold a conference at which the question will be discussed in an amicable way between the agents and the members of the Textile council. This, it seems, would be the simplest method of reaching an agreement and of still further explaining to the representatives of the operatives the full meaning of the proposition made by the agents. The correspondence has been quite courteous on both sides and we feel that a conference conducted in the same spirit would bring about a final and satisfactory settlement of the whole question.

SEEN AND HEARD

Alarmed by the excited chirping of her pet canaries, Mrs. Hugh Pickering, of Philadelphia, descended into the cellar of her house where the birds were kept and found that her pet canaries had been killed by a snake which had crawled into the house. The birds were found lying on the floor.

For the first time since 1858, the "Hundred House" sign on the famous "Hundred House" in Paris, France, was taken down for the first time. The sign is a hundred feet high.

Capt. Marchand of the French army, who perfected the invention of a letter attached to the barrel of an artillery carriage in such a manner that the letter could be fired above the battle line and direct the fire of the guns. This invention is a simple one. It is only necessary to tie the letter to the muzzle of the gun and the letter will be fired into the air.

After closing the authorities for the year, First Deputy of the Lowell City, was returned to jail to serve an undisturbed sentence at the jail in Middlebury. He has been trying to raise the funds to get back ever since he left by sending to the sheriff asking for the release of the prisoners. He returned on foot last week and was taken to serve his sentence of four months. Hawley had 10 years old.

Shells filled with oil intended to calm a stormy sea when fired into it have been patented in France. The effect of a blast of oil in reducing the size of waves is well known but the use of a floating vessel is difficult to reach those in front, among which the ship's progress will soon bring it. At first ordinary explosive shells containing oil were tried, but these shells being dangerous did not distribute the oil evenly. At present wooden shells are used, which break when they strike the water, allowing oil to run evenly over the surface. For night use the shells have illuminating attachments.

Tagged for Doctor, Vt., a Polish girl named Isabelle Matonewich was rescued in Brooklyn, Mass. She had just landed from the last steamer. Her tag was evidently written in Poland, she having traveled the intervening distance without mishap. She was sent on to her correct address after the card had been marked "Delayed, Milwaukie to Brooklyn, Mass."

Charles Eddy, the organist, played his own wedding march in New York City. When he had finished it, he walked to the altar and joined his bride. Then they were joined together.

A man who had picked up a young robin on a New Haven street intending to place it in a bush where it would be safe, was suddenly attacked by the old bird and put to flight after he had received a severe pecking.

A love letter which Miss Florence M. Crawford of Philadelphia, Pa., is equivalent to a will and should give her possession of an estate valued at $500,000 left by Edwin S. Peck, Jr., a paymaster's clerk in the U. S. army, and to whom she declares she was engaged, was produced before Charles Eddy, deputy register of wills, and was filed among the other papers in the case. The language in the letter upon which Miss Crawford bases her claim reads: "I and all that I have is yours to do with as you like. I am not in this half-hearted. I am wholly and absolutely yours, and I want to be."

Forty-eight babies in carriages, to say nothing of those beyond the perambulator age, were assembled in the common at Brattleboro, Vt., one afternoon, and an informal baby meet held. The youngest member of the body was only three weeks old.

Edward Hall of the Bowery, New York city, was arrested in Bronx for throwing a paper away. He claimed that the wind blew it away, but the police gave him a lecture and fined him the sum of $1.00.

Miss Emily Spencer, who lives near Molokai, Me., was surprised to see a little mouse walk into the kitchen one day. "The mother stood outside and called on a soft tone for the little fellow to come away out of the kitchen, but he did not obey until he had found the pantry, gobbled up a couple slices of bread, hopped up the cat's milk and hid himself to some doubt. Then he trotted leisurely away."

"The price of cotton goods is driving me to distraction," exclaimed a clever little shopper. "Of course, I am glad the South is prosperous, and naturally I am glad to contribute all I can, but one must draw the line after a while. I can buy silk of good quality as cheap as I can cotton goods, and my shirt waists, blouse if you prefer, my dress, the silk is much easier to launder."

"As for stockings, it is no wonder some women have taken to half hose and others to sandals. The price of stockings even now is double what it was last year."

"The whole may be equal to the sum of all its parts as a general proposition in mathematics," said the man who owns an automobile and at times wishes he did not, "but I can tell you that has nothing to do with automobile repair."

"I told a story yesterday to Mr. Blank, editor of the 'Prize Winner Magazine'."

"That's good!" responded the other. "Did you have a talk with him?"

"Yes."

"Did sort of a chap, but nice. Miss Dash told him a story not long ago and he told it to her. She asked him if he would tell her why and he said: 'Really, Miss Dash, that story is too good for us. What we want is not nice, sweetest.'"

A certain Providence tailor is in the habit of alluring student trade by the information that "John D. Jr." was never killed by her and he said: "Really, the character of his richest patron. It seems that besides sharing with other well known men the reputation of being a stickler for extreme punctuality, the young Rockefeller practiced great frugality. He never bought goods that were expensive or very cheap, but would select material with a view only to its durability."

"Then," says the tailor, "after the garments had been ordered, he would never fail to lean over and whisper confidentially: 'Now, Mr. Blank, please don't forget to slip into the pocket a couple of patches for the trousers.'"

There is a man in our town, Who is so wondrous wise, He knows he cannot sing at all, And so he never tries.

He also knows he has no wit, Like many funny folks, And so he never bothers us By getting off his jokes.

And when he has no word to say, He's wise enough, though young, To sit about with others talk, And hold his little tongue.

Two of the younger writers of New York's Bohemian set were talking, and one said: "I told a story yesterday to Mr. Blank, editor of the 'Prize Winner Magazine'."

"That's good!" responded the other. "Did you have a talk with him?"

"Yes."

"Did sort of a chap, but nice. Miss Dash told him a story not long ago and he told it to her. She asked him if he would tell her why and he said: 'Really, the character of his richest patron. It seems that besides sharing with other well known men the reputation of being a stickler for extreme punctuality, the young Rockefeller practiced great frugality. He never bought goods that were expensive or very cheap, but would select material with a view only to its durability.'"

"Then," says the tailor, "after the garments had been ordered, he would never fail to lean over and whisper confidentially: 'Now, Mr. Blank, please don't forget to slip into the pocket a couple of patches for the trousers.'"

There is a man in our town, Who is so wondrous wise, He knows he cannot sing at all, And so he never tries.

He also knows he has no wit, Like many funny folks, And so he never bothers us By getting off his jokes.

And when he has no word to say, He's wise enough, though young, To sit about with others talk, And hold his little tongue.

Secret Service men who are guarding the president at Oyster Bay tell a good story on Frank Tyree, until recently head of the presidential bodyguard and now United States marshal for the southern district of West Virginia. When President Roosevelt went

New Orleans after the yellow fever epidemic of last summer the big head of the Secret Service guard grew particularly nervous about the mosquitoes and constantly expressed the fear that he would be bitten by one of the germ bearing variety. One night when Tyree was standing alone on the back platform of the president's train, then passing through the worst part of the mosquito swamps, one of his companions stealthily looked the car door.

No one answered the insistent ringing of the platform bell and Tyree was forced to ride on the car platform for an hour alone with the mosquitoes. When finally he was admitted to the car Tyree was mad clear through. It's no joke to put a man in danger of being killed by a mosquito," said Tyree.

Andy Bezenak and Kid Farmer will meet at Indianapolis, Monday night.

Eddie Chambers of Philadelphia has been selected to meet Peter Sullivan at Lymanville, R. I., Monday night.

Though Sam Berger may visit Boston next week, it is not likely he will box at Chelsea, for he stated in New York yesterday that he does not intend to do any more boxing for at least three months.

Jenny McGinn, manager of Terry Martin, received an offer from Dayton yesterday for Martin to box Willie Fitzgerald sometime next month. As Martin does not want to box again till cooler weather the offer will be declined.

That Mayor Becker of Milwaukee is a believer in boxing is shown by a scheme he has to help raise $10,000 for a new auditorium. He figures that $50,000 can be raised on a boxing match alone, and the plan is to hold the contest in a big circus tent.

Sandy Ferguson seems to be pretty well fixed for managers. He has one in New York, one in Chelsea, and now Carl Harris of Chicago is posing as the Chelsea strong boy's manager in the west. Harris is in Cleveland trying to arrange a fight for $50 a side between Sandy and Hughie McElroy of Cleveland, the bout to take place in private.

lance and the New Jersey girls got into the tender, which was in tow of the launch.

On the way to shore the waves swamped the tender and its occupants were thrown into the sea. The launch was powerless to give them any help. The pilot did not dare stop or turn about. The captain had all he could do to get his piece into the yacht. Miss Redfeyder could not swim, and she was sinking when her friend, who was a good swimmer, seized the unconscious girl and held her head above water until some one threw a life preserver from the launch. With this assistance the brave young woman was able to keep herself and her helpless companion above the waves until a passing yacht came to their rescue. The commission voted Miss Titus a silver medal and $2,000, and no one has ever complained that the reward was undeserved.

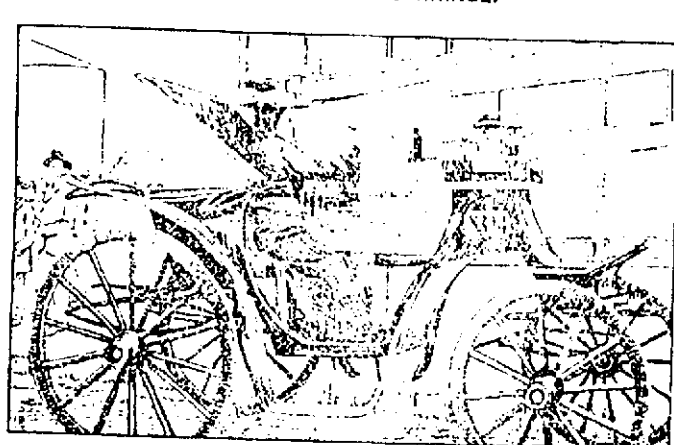

The recent meeting of the hero fund commission was one of the most interesting ever held. Twenty-six medals for bravery were awarded and $19,500 was distributed among several of the recipients of the medals. One of the most interesting cases in this allotment was that of Daniel J. Curtin, a New York youngster fifteen years of age, who was given a bronze medal and $2,000 with which to educate himself for saving two small girls from drowning. The children had fallen from the end of one of the great piers which extended into the East river, and Daniel plunged in courageously and held on to them until help arrived.

Still another case that has attracted wide attention is that of Miss Lucy E. Ernst of Philadelphia, who was awarded a silver medal for saving the life of Harry Schochut, a sixteen-year-old boy who had been bitten by a rattlesnake. The young folks were in the woods together when the snake struck the lad on the arm. Without a moment's hesitation Miss Ernst, recalling the Indian treatment of snake bite, applied her lips to the wound and began to extract the venom. Fearing that the wound was not bleeding enough to carry off the poison, she enlarged it with her penknife and resumed her work of extraction. She helped the frightened boy to a place of shelter, and when a physician saw him, four hours later, he was out of danger. Miss Ernst, however, was made violently ill by her good Samaritan act. Through an abrasion on her lip some of the deadly virus entered her circulation and she suffered acutely for several days.

PICTURES THAT HELP TO TELL THE WORLD'S STORY OF THE PRESENT

A STUDIO IN A CARRIAGE.

The scene depicted in the cut is of daily occurrence in Berlin on the famous Unter den Linden. A woman artist who is making a series of pictures of Berlin outdoor life makes a temporary studio of a fiacre hired by the hour and works away in full view of the public quite regardless of the interest the excited. When she has completed one canvas she mounts another on the improvised easel before her and begins to sketch in another view.

THE MIKADO'S OLDEST SUBJECT

The old Japanese woman whose picture is given herewith is 110 years of age. She is believed to be the oldest person in the empire. An American traveler became interested in her and on returning sent her an ear trumpet, for she is deaf. The cup is a relic of the Mikado's oldest subject, Japan, and from falling into the hands of the enemy.

AN ANCIENT SILVER CUP.

The cup herewith pictured has been recovered recently from the Wash. estuary which is on the coast of Lincolnshire, England. This cup is eight inches in height and weighs two pounds and a half. It is believed that it once

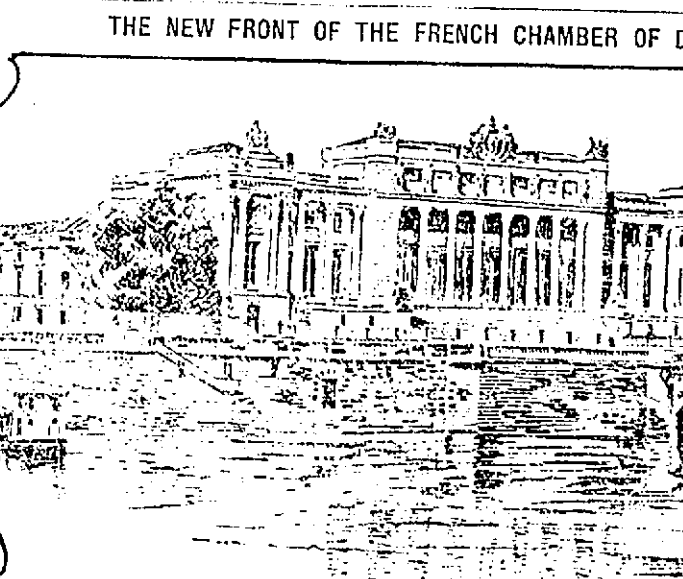

The cut shows how the skyscraper will appear when the building has been reconstructed according to the plan which has been decided on. The new facade, which will front on the Quai d'Orsay, is classical in proposed alterations, some of the members being in favor of erecting a new building.

UNIQUE SKYSCRAPER PROPOSED BY A BELGIAN.

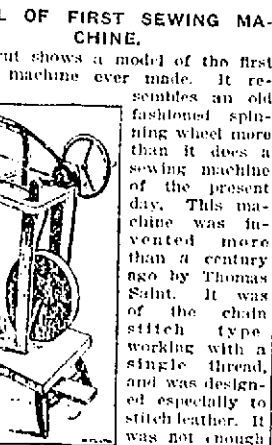

Julius Gernert, a Brussels engineer, designed the arch-shaped structure shown in the drawing. It is a skyscraper twenty-one stories in height rising to an altitude of 400 feet. Iron and cement are to be the materials used in its construction, and its height and ventilation will be perfect. A combination of trolley and elevator will carry tenants to the various floors.

THE NEW FRONT OF THE FRENCH CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES.

The cut shows how the skyscraper will appear when the building has been reconstructed according to the plan which has been decided on. The new facade, which will front on the Quai d'Orsay, is classical in proposed alterations, some of the members being in favor of erecting a new building.

MODEL OF FIRST SEWING MACHINE.

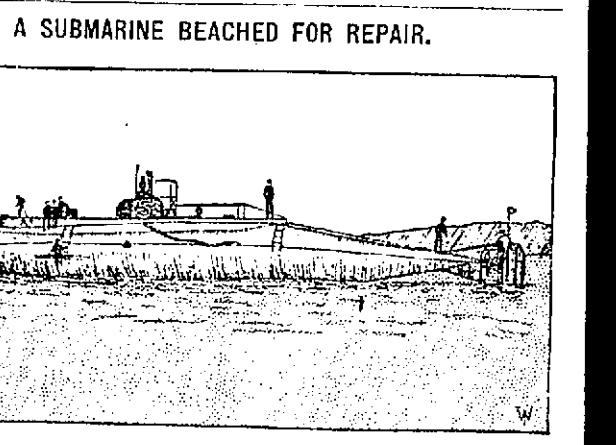

The cut shows a model of the first sewing machine ever made. It resembles an old-fashioned spinning wheel more than it does a sewing machine of the present day. This machine was invented more than a century ago by Thomas Saint. It was of the chain-stitch type, working with a single thread, and was designed especially to stitch leather. It was not enough of a success, however, to supplant the old method of hand sewing.

A MAGNETIC DISTRICT.

In the tropical northern territory of South Australia travelers need not carry a compass. The district abounds with the nests of the magnetic, or meridian, ant. The longer axes of these nests point due north and south.

A SUBMARINE BEACHED FOR REPAIR.

The strange object herewith depicted is not a leviathan fish as its appearance might indicate, but a submarine which has been drawn out on the beach for necessary repairs to its hull. While moving along in the water half submerged the craft is not unlike a giant fish, and when out of water the likeness is even more suggestive.

TO PREVENT ACCIDENTAL POISONING.

The odd shaped bottles shown in the cut were recently exhibited at a druggists' convention in England. They are designed to make accidental poisoning by taking fluid from the wrong bottle in the dark practically impossible. One of them is a bottle fitted with a lock and key. Another is arranged with a cuplike top to distinguish it from the ordinary bottle. A third is a bottle that will not stand up.

One way to save money is to use a RUD HEATER. When you consider that the only expenditure for instant heat is the cost of the fuel, and one cent for heating the water, for which you get ten gallons of boiling water, it will not take you long to figure out a large saving. They have been traveling for about 11 months, during which time they have visited 32 states and part of the Republic of China.

WINN GETS FRANCHISE

But League Rule Must be Changed

So That He Can Retain It Next Season—Winn Signs Witherup of Boston Nationals and is Seeking Other Players

The local baseball situation is considerably clearer as a result of the meeting of the special committee of the New England league held at the American House this morning and after one or two little technicalities are straightened out it is practically certain that the team will be turned over to second baseman Alexander Winn.

The proposed baseball association did not materialize as the promoters of the concern could not raise a sum of money large enough to make the required deposit, $200 being the sum total of their efforts.

MR. COWLEY'S ILLNESS WAS LOST AT SEA

Explained in Detail in Court This Morning

A hypothetical question about a yard long involving a question in hydrostatics was what Lawyer Wilson "threw" to the jury. Thomas of the water department at the residence of the Cowley case before Judge Hammond, at the court house, this morning.

The question was substantially as follows: What quantity of water would pass through an aperture two inches and a half by six inches and a half in an hour, assuming said aperture to exist in a steel plate lying diagonally in an 18-inch connection with a pressure of eighty pounds per square inch on one side and a pressure of sixty-eight pounds per square inch on the other?

No one expected that the superintendent would give the answer by mental arithmetic and he didn't.

Then Mr. Wilson read a letter received from Engineer Mills of the Locks & Canals company in reply to one which he had previously sent putting the same question to the engineer, in which Mr. Mills gave the answer as 42,000 gallons per hour, and all in the court wisely nodded as if to say: "The gentleman is right," or "That's the answer I got."

Mr. Thomas was then relieved and Mr. Cowley, the plaintiff, and Miss Kelleher, the trained nurse, who attended him during his illness, were sworn and Mr. Cowley took the stand.

Mr. Cowley, after giving his age, 35 years, his occupation, etc., was asked to recall the incidents of July 18, 1903, which he did, also stating that his health was perfect on that day.

On July 19 he drank city water at his home. He had used city water for years, he said, and always paid his assessments. On July 23 he saw in the papers that there had been a discussion as to contamination of the city water supply. After that he had the water at the house boiled before it was used.

Mr. Cowley was asked to name the places where he ate and drank between July 18 and 29 and he named nearly all the downtown restaurants. Lawyer Dunbar misunderstood the question to be July 18 and 19, and after Mr. Cowley had named half a dozen or more places Lawyer Dunbar asked him how many times he ate during the day.

Mr. Cowley then described in detail the symptoms of his illness. For example, he said he used paragon, beads, elderberry wine and some other things he got at Gettysburg. These were not effective and he called in Dr. Hollbrook on or about the 5th of August. A bottle was then produced which Mr. Cowley identified as one which he had obtained with Dr. Hollbrook's first prescription. The bottle was marked "Exhibit A."

Mr. Cowley stated that he was not discharged as a patient by Dr. Hollbrook until February 14, 1904, and up to that time he had not recovered and up to that time he had never had any trouble with his stomach like that.

Mr. Cowley referred to the injury to his law practice as the result of his illness, and when asked if he had to withdraw from any cases he replied: "There was the divorce case of Hand and Hand in Essex county."

"Hand in hand," asked Mr. Dunbar, with a mock shudder.

"Then," continued Mr. Cowley, "there was the divorce case of Hand and Hand in Essex county."

He mentioned a number of other cases from which he had to withdraw while ill.

The case was resumed this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Mr. Cowley on the stand again.

Justice Ormond Fell From Liner

NEW YORK, July 20. The shipboard accident at sea of Justice William F. Ormond of Atlantic City, was reported when the Savannah liner, the Albatross, which left New York on Monday afternoon, arrived at her port yesterday afternoon. He was last seen on Wednesday morning.

No one saw Justice Ormond fall overboard or jump from the vessel, and circumstances seem to point to an accidental death rather than a suicide. No reason is known why he should have taken his own life.

The 40-year-old, Harvard-trained lawyer, and a native of Atlantic City, had been on the boat for a vacation trip to the south. It was hot and Monday night, the night of falling to his cabin deck, he took a stroll on the deck. On Tuesday the three friends were together all day, and sat on the deck up to almost midnight, when they retired. Justice Ormond shared a cabin with H. B. and after remaining below for about an hour went up on deck, saying it was too hot to sleep there and that he would spend the night on deck.

When H. B. and Brown met at the breakfast table they noticed Justice Ormond and began a search for him. The vessel was thoroughly canvassed but they could find no trace of the missing man, and were forced to the conclusion that he had fallen overboard while asleep. Mr. H. B. said Justice Ormond's favorite place on the ship was a seat on the stanchion, and it is believed that he fell asleep while in this position and tumbled overboard.

Justice Ormond was thirty years old, and came of a prominent family in Atlantic City. He was unmarried and left a mother, Mrs. E. E. Ormond, two sisters and a brother, Sidney Ormond, managing editor of the Nashville Tennessean. He was a nephew of the late Sidney Root, the famous architect who was managing director of designs of the World's Fair at Chicago.

Mr. H. B. returned on the Savannah liner, sailing a few hours after his arrival here, to take Justice Ormond's personal property back to his home.

BITTEN BY DOG

Letter Carrier Sullivan Attacked While Delivering Mail

Letter Carrier Charles Sullivan, who delivers mail on Centralville hill, was badly bitten by a little fox terrier belonging to Charles H. Rindall while delivering mail at the latter's home in Myrtle Street yesterday afternoon. While several dozen wounds were inflicted in the cut of his right leg, he had them attended to right away, and according to the doctor, the wounds will not result seriously.

Mr. Sullivan was on his regular route yesterday and had occasion to deliver mail at Mr. Rindall's residence, and while leaving the card for him, without barking, made a run for him and sunk his teeth in Mr. Sullivan's leg.

After reporting at the post office he called at the office of Dr. J. C. Irish and the latter cauterized the wounds and provided applications.

Light leg "The thing happened so quickly and without any warning that Mr. Sullivan had no time to protect himself."

The incident occurred in beating the dog off and a veterinary examination showed that his trousers had been torn, his underclothing rent and there were two well defined lacerations in the calf of his leg. The wounds bled profusely and in order to staunch the flow of blood he wound a handkerchief about his leg and then continued to deliver the remainder of his route.

After reporting at the post office he called at the office of Dr. J. C. Irish and the latter cauterized the wounds and provided applications.

TELEPHONE POLL NEED ASSISTANCE

The Cards are Still Wiggville Family in Coming In Poor Circumstances

THE POLL STANDS 2185 TO 202

Against the Granting of Second Franchise

The reply postal cards sent out by Mayor Casey inquiring whether or not the people of this city wanted a dual telephone system continue to come in and at noon today 1518 people representing 2387 telephones had sent in their cards.

Of the above mentioned number 163 people representing 202 telephones are in favor of the double system, while 1650 people representing 2185 telephones are against the double system.

To show the interest taken in the matter of granting a franchise three of the postal cards received were from out of town, one coming from Toronto, Can., this morning, while one has been received from Newport, N. H. In all three instances it is understood that the people were on their vacations and having the Lowell papers at their command read of the issuance of the postal cards and sent to have the cards forwarded to them.

The mayor will take action on the franchise tomorrow, and while the mayor will not make any statement the people can rest assured that he will veto the action of the aldermen in order to protect the interests of the public.

The annual reports of the water and fire departments are out. Both reports contain valuable information.

The committee on streets went out on a tour of inspection this afternoon and will hold a public hearing tonight.

Mayor Casey is 23 years old today. He is passing around the cigars.

SAFE BLOWERS FOUND HANGING Were Surprised While Tragic Death of Mary A. Parker

The many friends of Mrs. Mary A. Parker, for many years a teacher in the public schools of Bangor, will be deeply pained to learn of her tragic death which occurred at the home of her brother, Jonathan L. Parker, 152 Hillside street, yesterday afternoon. Dependent and undoubtedly temporarily deranged as the result of continued illness that held out no hope for the future, the unfortunate woman died by her own hand. She was found hanging from a rope tied to a nail among the rafters in the attic of her brother's home and was cold in death when found by her brother.

DEFIES DEATH Woman Makes Perilous Trip in Balloon

NEW YORK, July 20.—A balloon voyage, filled with hazards from house-tops, streets, trees and water, rising to amazing heights and descending close to the city, was accomplished by Dr. Julian P. Thomas, Mrs. Thomas and Roy Knabenshue yesterday, and for the fourth time the great bag was in the air hundreds of thousands of spectators watched the zig-zag and up-and-down journey. A trip on a magnificent scenic railway, with the currents of air for a track, which at one point reached an elevation of 8000 feet, coursed slantingly above Manhattan almost in the clouds, making a loop and returning to recross the river, back into Manhattan; then it took almost a straight line westward across the city to the middle of the Hudson river, where the basket twice dipped into the water with a landing on the New Jersey shore such was the ride of the aeronauts enjoyed.

maude and the New Jersey girl got in to the tender, which was in tow of the launch.

On the way to shore the waves swamped the tender and its occupants were thrown into the sea. The launch was powerless to give them any help. The pilot did not dare stop or turn about. The captain had all he could do to get his men into the yacht. Miss Titus, however, could not swim, and she was sinking when her friend, who was a good swimmer, seized the unconscious girl and held her head above water until some one threw a life preserver from the launch. With this assistance the heroic young woman was able to keep herself and her helpless companion above the waves until a passing yacht came to their rescue. The commission voted Miss Titus a silver medal and $2,000, and no one has ever complained that the reward was undeserved.

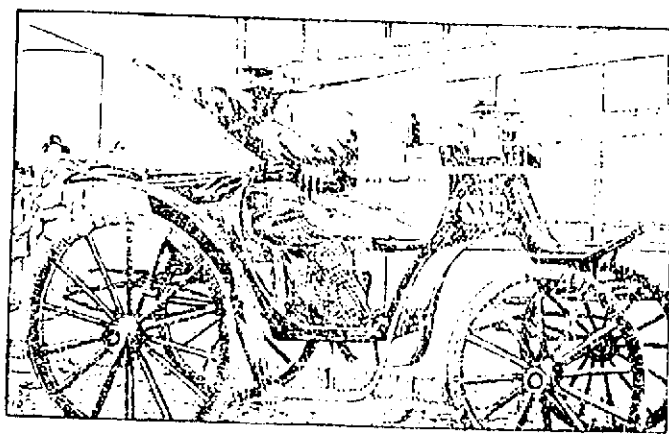

The recent meeting of the hero fund commission was one of the most interesting ever held. Twenty-six medals for bravery were awarded and $10,000 was distributed among several of the recipients of the medals. One of the most interesting cases in this allotment was that of Daniel J. Curtin, a New York youngster fifteen years of age, who was given a bronze medal and $2,000 which he will use to educate himself for saving two small girls from drowning. The children had fallen from the end of one of the great piers which extend into the East river, and Daniel plunged in courageously and held on to them until help arrived.

Still another case that has attracted wide attention is that of Miss Lucy E. Ernst of Philadelphia, who was awarded a silver medal for saving the life of Harry Schenck, a sixteen-year-old boy who had been bitten by a rattlesnake. The young folks were in the woods together when the snake struck the lad on the arm. Without a moment's hesitation Miss Ernst, recalling the Indian treatment of snake bite, applied her lips to the wound and began to extract the venom. Fearing that the wound was not bleeding enough to carry off the poison, she enlarged it with her penknife and resumed her work of extraction. She helped the frightened boy to a place of shelter, and when a physician saw him, four hours later, he was out of danger. Miss Ernst, however, was made violently ill by her good Samaritan act. Through an abrasion on her hip some of the deadly virus entered her circulation and she suffered acutely for several days.

PICTURES THAT HELP TO TELL THE WORLD'S STORY OF THE PRESENT

A STUDIO IN A CARRIAGE.

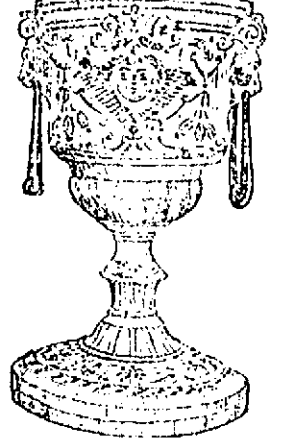

The scene depicted in the cut is of daily occurrence in Berlin on the famous Unter den Linden. A woman artist who is making a series of pictures of Berlin under the name of a temporary studio of a party, tried by the hour and work away in full view of the public, and regardless of the interest she creates. When she has completed one canvas she mounts another on the easel and is before her and begins to sketch in another view.

THE MIKADO'S OLDEST SUBJECT.

The old Japanese emperor whose picture is given here is the year of his age. She is believed to be the oldest person in the empire. An American traveler became interested in her and

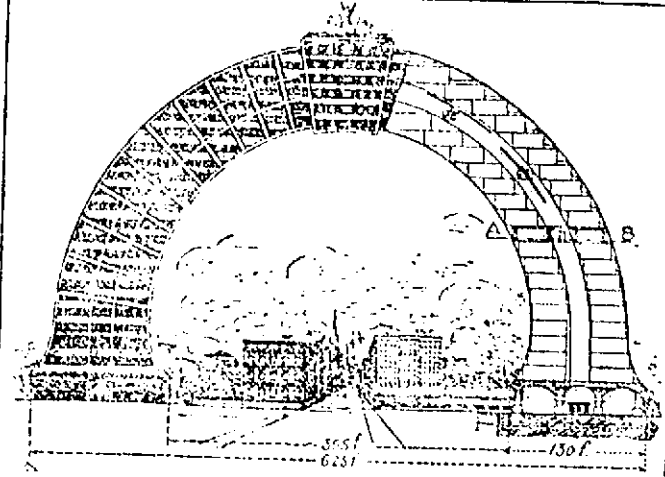

AN ANCIENT SILVER CUP.

The cup herewith pictured has been recovered recently from the Wain, an ancient which is on the coast of Lincolnshire, England. This cup is eight inches in height and weighs two pounds and a half. It is believed that it once formed part of King John's royal treasure, and was used to hold the wine of the enemy.

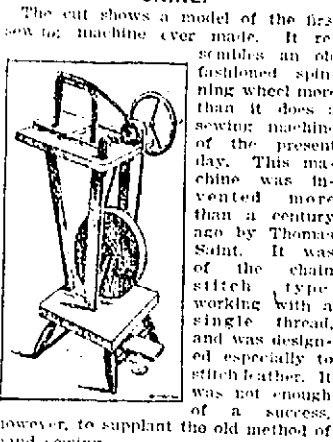

on returning sent her an ear trumpet addressed to "Mrs. Mithras, the mikado's oldest subject, Japan," and it reached its destination in due time.

UNIQUE SKYSCRAPER PROPOSED BY A BELGIAN.

Julien Guernier, a Brussels engineer, designed the arch-shaped structure shown in the drawing. It is a skyscraper twenty-one stories in height rising to an altitude of two feet. Iron and cement are to be the materials used in its construction, and its height and ventilation will be perfect. A combination of tricycle and elevator will carry tenants to the various floors.

MODEL OF FIRST SEWING MACHINE.

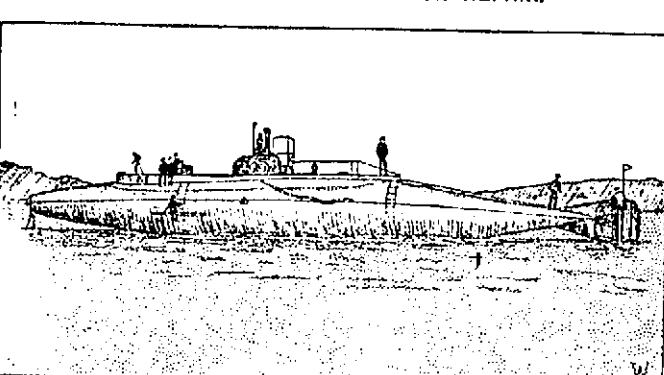

The cut shows a model of the first sewing machine ever made. It resembles an old-fashioned spinning wheel more than it does a sewing machine of the present day. This machine was invented more than a century ago by Thomas Saint. It was of the chain stitch type, working with a single thread, and was designed especially to stitch leather. It was not enough, however, to supplant the old method of hand sewing.

A MAGNETIC DISTRICT.

In the tropical northern territory of South Australia travelers need not carry a compass. The district abounds with the nests of the magnetic, or of trolley and elevator will carry tenants to the various floors.

A SUBMARINE BEACHED FOR REPAIR.

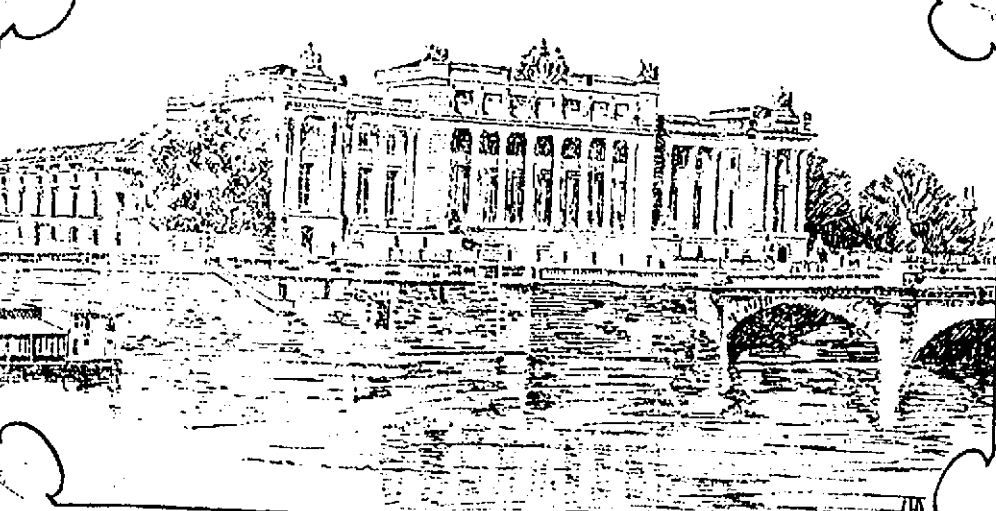

The strange object herewith depicted is not a leviathan fish as its appearance might indicate, but a submarine which has been drawn out on the beach for necessary repairs to its hull. While moving along in the water half submerged the craft is not unlike a giant fish, and when out of water the likeness is even more suggestive.

TO PREVENT ACCIDENTAL POISONING.

The old shaped bottles shown in the cut were recently exhibited at a druggists' convention in England. They are designed to make accidental poisoning by taking fluid from the wrong bottle in the dark practically impossible. One of them is a bottle fitted with a lock and key. Another is arranged with a cuplike top to distinguish it from the ordinary bottle. A third is a bottle that will not stand up.

THE NEW FRONT OF THE FRENCH CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES.

The cut shows how the chamber of deputies will appear when the building has been reconstructed according to the plan which has been decided on. The new facade, which will front on the quai d'Orsay, is classical in appearance. There has been much discussion in the corps legislatif over the proposed alterations, some of the members being in favor of erecting a new building.
